SARRI, Kristen

Designated Federal Officer

U.S. Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative Multi-Stakeholder Group

Preferred Name: Kris Sarri

Business E-mail: kristen_sarri@ios.doi.gov

Business Phone: 202-208-1927

Kris Sarri is the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy Management and Budget at the Department of the Interior, a position she has held since 2014. Ms. Sarri oversees the human capital, fiscal, business, and budgetary management of the Department of the Interior, with a $12 billion budget and more than 70,000 employees. She provides policy leadership on international affairs and for Secretarial initiatives on land conservation, sustainability, youth engagement and employment and diversity.

Prior to her appointment at the Department of the Interior, Ms. Sarri served as the Associate Director of Legislative Affairs at the Office of Management and Budget; the Deputy Director of Policy and Strategic Planning at the Department of Commerce; a Senior Professional Staffer for the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation; and as a Senior Policy Advisor for Senator Jack Reed.

Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary Sarri is a graduate of Washington University, St Louis, where she earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Biology and Political Science, and the University of Michigan, where she earned a Master of Science degree and a Master of Public Health degree in Natural Resources.

CARLSON, Curtis Paul

Member, Government (Federal)

Preferred Name: Curtis Carlson

Business E-mail: Curtis.carlson@treasury.gov

Business Phone: 202-622-0130

Curtis Carlson is the Director of the Business Revenue Division of the Treasury's Office of Tax Analysis. Mr. Carlson has been a financial economist at Treasury since 2000, specializing in business taxation as well as energy and environmental issues.

Mr. Carlson has been a Senior Economist at the Council of Economic Advisors and teaches microeconomics at John Hopkins University's Advanced Academic Programs. He earned a Doctorate degree in economics from the University of Maryland in 1999.

GOULD, Gregory James

Member, Government (Federal)

Preferred Name: Greg Gould

Business E-mail: Greg.gould@onrr.gov

Business Phone: 202-513-0600

Greg Gould is the Director of the Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR) and is responsible for the collection and disbursement of billions of dollars annually in revenues owed to the Federal government and American Indians from energy production on all Federal and American Indian lands. Additionally, he is responsible for ONRR's compliance, enforcement, and financial management programs.

Mr. Gould began his career with the Department of the Interior as a Geologist in the New York Outer Continental Shelf office of the Bureau of Land Management in 1981. Prior to serving in his current position, Mr. Gould served as the head of the Environmental Division within the former Minerals Management Service and was responsible for exercising policy and staff direction over a nationwide program for environmental assessment of the Outer Continental Shelf. The Division provided policy guidance, direction, and program oversight with respect to evaluating the potential and actual environmental impacts associated with extraction of offshore minerals—including oil, gas, sand, gravel—and renewable energy production. The Division ensured that agency policies and industry practices conformed to the Nation's environmental policies and laws; managed the National Offshore Environmental Studies Program; and oversaw the preparation of the Environmental Impact Statement for the 5-Year Offshore Oil and Gas Leasing Program. In addition to his Executive Branch work, Mr. Gould served as an energy advisor to the Chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Oceanography.

Mr. Gould earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Geology from the State University of New York, a Master's degree in Public Administration from George Mason University, and graduated from the John F. Kennedy School of Government Senior Executive Fellows program at Harvard University.

Business E-mail: jlenoir@blackfeetnation.com

Business Phone: 406-338-5545, ext. 2325

Julie Lenoir is the Immediate Supervisor Tribal Council for the Blackfeet Nation. In March 2013, Ms. Lenoir was appointed by the Tribal Council and the Office of Natural Resources Revenue as the Director of Oil and Gas Royalty Revenue Audit for the Tribe. In this capacity, she oversees the audit and compliance reviews on royalty revenues of the Blackfeet Reservation oil resources; the yearly budget; and workplans for ONRR and the Department of Interior.

Ms. Lenoir has an Associate of Applied Science in Accounting from the University of Montana.

MATTHEWS, Michael Darryl

Member, Government (State)

Preferred Name: Mike Matthews

Business E-mail: mike.matthews@wyo.gov

Business Phone: 307-777-7547

Mike Matthews is a Project Analyst with the State of Wyoming's Department of Audit's Mineral Audit Division. Mr. Matthews joined the Mineral Audit Division in February of 1999 from private practice. He is an active member of a policy advisory group—State and Tribal Royalty Audit Committee (STRAC)—from 1999 to present, serving as the Chairman from 2010-2011 (Policy advisory group). Mr. Matthews has over 15 years' experience working with the Department of Interior's Mineral Management Service (MMS) and, later, the Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR) on Federal mineral production and reporting issues.

Mr. Matthews holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Finance from the University of Wyoming (1989); a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting from the University of Wyoming (1990); and a Juris Doctorate degree from the University of Wyoming College of Law (1993); he also attended and received his diploma at the Graduate School of Banking at Colorado (2008-2010).

SMITH, Carl Michael

Member, Government (State)

Preferred Name: Mike Smith

Business E-mail: Mike.smith@iogcc.state.ok.us

Business Phone: 405-525-3556, ext. 200

From 2002 to 2004 Carl Michael Smith served as assistant secretary of fossil energy for the U.S. Department of Energy and was the primary policy advisor to Secretary Spencer Abraham on Federal coal, petroleum, and natural gas programs including extensive research and development efforts. He oversaw an organization of nearly 1,000 scientists, engineers, technicians, and administrative staff in two national laboratories, four field offices, and at the Department of Energy's headquarters in Washington, DC. He was responsible for several high-priority presidential initiatives, including implementing the Bush Administration's $2 billion development of a new generation of environmentally sound clean coal technologies and the $1 billion FutureGen project. He also managed the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve and the Northeast Home Heating Oil Reserve, both key emergency response tools available to the president to protect Americans from energy supply disruptions.

Mr. Smith's international experience includes service with the secretary general, Ministry of Science and Technology, People's Republic of China as a co-Chair of the US-China Oil and Gas Forum, and as chairman of the policy group, Carbon Sequestration Leadership Forum (CSLF). CSLF is a Bush Administration initiative with 21 country membership seeking technical solutions to the capture and storage of carbon dioxide from energy generating facilities. Additionally, he led U.S. bilateral fossil energy protocols in Australia, India, Norway, and Russia. From 1995 to 2002, Mr. Smith served as Oklahoma's energy secretary for former Gov. Frank Keating, responsible for fossil energy policy and oversight of seven major State energy agencies and commissions. He served as the governor's official representative to the IOGCC, the Southern States Energy Board, the Interstate Mining Compact Commission, and the Governor's Ethanol Coalition. He served as the IOGCC vice chairman in 1999.

Mr. Smith served as president of the Oklahoma Independent Petroleum Association in 1994 and operated an independent oil and gas exploration company based in Oklahoma City. He practiced energy law and earned a Bachelor of Arts and law degrees from the University of Oklahoma.

WARE, Claire

Member, Government (Tribal)

Preferred Name: Claire Ware

Business E-mail: claire.ware007@yahoo.com

Business Phone: 307-332-7835

Claire Ware is the Director of the Shoshone and Arapaho Minerals Compliance Program responsible for conducting audits and compliance reviews of the oil and gas royalties and severance tax collections derived from the Wind River Reservation in Wyoming. She has also held the positions of Audit Manager and Principal Investigator in the same office. Ms. Ware has served as Chairperson and Vice Chair for the State and Tribal Royalty Auditing Committee for a term of two years, and she is an enrolled member of the Eastern Shoshone Tribe and a descendant of the Northern Arapaho Tribes of the Wind River Reservation.

Ms. Ware has always worked for the Eastern Shoshone and Northern Arapaho Tribes in one way or another. She worked for the Wind River Environmental Quality Commission as an Administrative Assistant; she assisted with the direction of the environmental programs; and helped administer the grants awarded from EPA and DOE – Uranium Mill Tailings Remediation Study. She taught Business courses at St. Stephens Indian School as well as Accounting and Marketing Classes at the Haskell Indian Nations University in Lawrence, Kansas. Ms. Ware has held several positions within the Tribal Engineer's Office and the Wind River Environmental Quality Commission to include a Contracts and Grants Officer, Contract Specialist, and Secretary.

From 2012 to 2013, Claire served on the Indian Oil Valuation Negotiated Rulemaking Committee for the Office of Natural Resources Revenue as a Tribal Representative.

Claire holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Wyoming in Business Education. Claire has been married for 30 years, has three sons, one daughter, one granddaughter, and three grandsons. She is very proud of her mother of 83 years, who encourages her to pursue her goals and to learn about Tribal heritage, culture, and history and to participate in Tribal affairs.

BARNETT, Bruce Alton

Alternate, Government (Tribal)

Preferred Name: Bruce Barnett

Business E-mail: bbarnett@choctawnation.com

Business Phone: 580-924-8280, ext. 2186

Bruce Barnett was hired five years ago to create a centralized Internal Audit Department for Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma in Durant, Oklahoma. Bruce has been the driving force in creating the anonymous employee hotline, quarterly conflicts of interest reporting, the Compliance Committee, updating the Code of Conduct and Ethics, strengthening the procedures that deter theft and fraud, updating policies and procedures, and improving internal controls across multiple departments. His ancestors were Tribal members of the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma.

Prior to joining Choctaw Nation, Bruce worked as the Assistant Superintendent of Finance (CFO) at Sherman Independent School District in Sherman, Texas, for 13 years. Prior to that, Bruce worked in public accounting for 10 years at two CPA firms in Denison and Sherman. While in public accounting, Bruce worked on independent audits nearly 70% of the time.

Bruce graduated from Purcell High School and Southeastern Oklahoma State University, where he earned his Bachelor of Science degree with a double major in Accounting and Business Administration.

STEWARD, James Dean

Alternate, Government (Federal)

Preferred Name: Jim Steward

Business E-mail: jim.steward@onrr.gov

Business Phone: 303-231-3715

Jim Steward assumed duties as the Deputy Director of the Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR) on September 1, 2015.

As ONRR's Deputy Director, Mr. Steward oversees the day-to-day operations of the Denver Office, as well as the ONRR field offices in Houston and Dallas, Texas; Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Oklahoma; and Farmington, New Mexico.

Mr. Steward has nearly 30 years of Federal Government experience. He joined ONRR and the U.S. Department of the Interior in 2004, after serving 17 years with the Department of Energy. Mr. Steward was selected to the DOI's Senior Executive Service (SES) in January 2008.

Prior to his appointment as Deputy Director, he was the Program Director for Financial and Production Management, overseeing the production verification function and managing the financial organization responsible for collecting, accounting for, and disbursing Federal and American Indian mineral lease revenues to various Federal, State, and American Indian accounts. Prior to that, he served as ONRR's Program Director for Asset Management.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Mr. Steward earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemical Engineering in 1984 and his Master of Business Administration in 1986.

VOSKANIAN, Marina

Alternate, Government (State)

Preferred Name: Marina Voskanian

Business E-mail: marina.voskanian@slc.ca.gov

Business Phone: 562-590-5291

Marina Voskanian is the Chief of Mineral Resources Management Division of California State Lands Commission (CSLC). She is responsible for the lease management and administration for extracting oil, gas, and geothermal resources, as well as other minerals, from State-owned and State-controlled lands.

Ms. Voskanian has 39 years of experience as a petroleum engineer and has been employed with the CSLC since 1987. Prior to that, she held several engineering and management positions with Exxon Oil Company, Southern California Gas Company, and Phillips Petroleum Company. Ms. Voskanian has a deep understanding of the oil and gas industry. Throughout her career, she has managed diverse interactions between the energy industry, multiple government regulatory agencies, and the public, all gracefully and effectively.

As a Registered Petroleum Engineer, Ms. Voskanian received her Master of Science degree in petroleum engineering from the University of Southern California (USC) in 1976 and her Doctorate degree in 1978. She has served as a part-time lecturer, teaching graduate courses in Petroleum Engineering Department, at USC and undergraduate courses in the Mechanical Engineering Department at the California Polytechnic University in Pomona for more than 15 years. She has authored several technical publications. She was selected three times (2006-07, 2009-10, and 2012-13) by the Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE) as Distinguished Lecturer to tour the world (26 countries) and to give educational lectures. She has inspired many international audiences promoting renewable energy and emphasizing the importance of enhancing oil and gas production and State revenue, while simultaneously protecting the environment.

She represents CSLC at the Baldwin Hills Conservancy Board and currently serves as the Vice-Chairman of the Board. She has been successful in her public service, and she received several Certificates of Excellence and Superior Accomplishment Awards from the State of CA. She has also received numerous awards and recognitions from SPE and other professional organizations.

Preferred Name: Rebecca Adamson

Business E-mail: radamson@firstpeoples.org

Business Phone: 540-899-6545

Rebecca Adamson, Cherokee economist, is Founder and President of First Peoples Worldwide. A leader, activist, and ground-breaking indigenous woman, Ms. Adamson holds a distinct perspective concerning how indigenous people's values and economic systems can transform business models of today. Ms. Adamson has worked directly with grassroots Tribal communities and nationally as an advocate for local Tribal issues since 1970. She established the premiere U.S. development institute, First Nations Development Institute in 1980, and, in 1997, she created the first U.S.-based global indigenous peoples NGO: First Peoples Worldwide. Ms. Adamson's work established the first microenterprise loan fund in the United States, the first Tribal investment model, and a national movement for reservation land reform. Ms. Adamson has established a new field of culturally appropriate, values-driven development, which led to legislation that established new standards of accountability regarding Federal trust responsibilities for Native Americans.

She holds a Master of Science degree in Economic Development from Southern New Hampshire University (formerly New Hampshire College) in Manchester, New Hampshire—where she has also taught a graduate course on Indigenous Economics within the Community Economic Development Program—and a Doctor in Humane Letters degree from Dartmouth College.

Preferred Name: Paul Bugala

Business E-mail: pbugala@gmail.com

Business Phone: 202-558-8165

Paul Bugala has worked for more than a decade on sustainability and investment issues in the oil, gas, and mining industries at Calvert Investments, Oxfam America, and as an independent industry analyst. He also is a member of the multi-stakeholder group that is implementing the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative in the U.S. (USEITI) and of advisory boards for the Center for Environmental Policy at American University and Amnesty International USA's Business and Human Rights Group. Before coming to Washington, DC, in 2004, Mr. Bugala had been a networking and telecommunications industry analyst, marketing executive, and journalist. His publications related to USEITI include the reports "Transparency Begins at Home: An Assessment of United States Revenue Transparency and Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative Requirements" (2006 – Oxfam America/Publish What You Pay) and "Materiality of Disclosure Required by the Energy Security Through Transparency Act" (2010 – Calvert Investments). Mr. Bugala was also the peer reviewer of the United States sections of the Natural Resource Governance Institute's 2010 and 2013 Revenue Governance Indices.

FARRELL, Lynda Kymer

Member, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Lynda Farrell

Business E-mail: lynda@pscoalition.org

Business Phone: 484-340-0648

Lynda Farrell is the Executive Director of the Pipeline Safety Coalition (PSC) Pennsylvania non-profit dedicated to pipeline safety. PSC's relationships focus on improving public, personal, and environmental safety in pipeline issues by providing a high level of equal access to information, providing community mentoring, and by facilitating respectful and productive conversations between citizens, environmental organizations, Federal/State/local governments and pipeline operators. In May 2014, PSC became a Federally recognized 501(c)(3) Corporation. As Executive Director of PSC, Lynda approached the mayors of San Bruno, CA, and Allentown, PA—two cities hardest hit by gas pipeline explosions—with the concept of forming a Mayors' Council on Pipeline Safety (MCPS). MCPS is now a national, bipartisan team of mayors, elected officials, fire chiefs, first responders, government and non-government organizations, educators, and citizens whose goal is to achieve safer American communities through collaborative efforts to define and develop pipeline safety protocols specific to America's cities. In 2015, the mayors appointed Ms. Farrell as the Executive Director of MCPS. She has authored and/or co-authored sixteen awarded U.S. Department of Transportation's Pipeline Hazardous Materials and Safety Administration (PHMSA) Technical Assistance Grant (TAG) proposals.

Preferred Name: Mike LeVine

Business E-mail: mlevine@oceana.org

Business Phone: 907-586-4050

Michael LeVine, based in Juneau, Alaska, is Pacific Senior Counsel for Oceana. He has worked on resource management and related topics for more than a decade and currently provides legal expertise and guidance for Oceana on issues in Alaska and along the Pacific coast, including oil and gas activities, industrial fishing, and ocean acidification. He has particular expertise in offshore oil and gas regulation and management, as well as the impacts of large-scale commercial fishing on threatened and endangered species. He has Bachelor of Science degree, with distinction, in Civil and Environmental Engineering from Cornell University; a Juris Doctor, with high honors, from Duke University School of Law; and a Master of Environmental Management from the Nicholas School of the Environment at Duke University.

ROMIG Jr., Keith Duane

Member, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Keith Romig

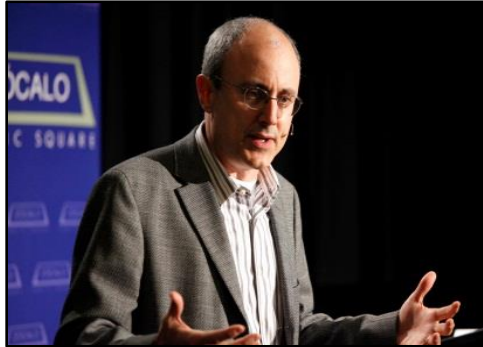

Business E-mail: kromig@usw.org

Business Phone: 615-831-6786

Keith Romig works for the United Steelworkers as a public policy analyst and advocate. He also provides specialized collective bargaining assistance to local unions. He is a primary corporate research and policy resource for the union's paper, oil, chemical, mining, and nuclear sectors. Prior to the 2005 merger of the Steelworkers and PACE International Union (Paper, Allied-Industrial, Chemical, and Energy Workers) he directed the international affairs work of PACE and advised the union's leadership on matters of public policy. He was a founding board member and has been an officer of the Manufacturing Skill Standards Council. From 2001–03, he served as a member of the Small Business, Labor, and Agricultural Advisory Panel of the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta. From 1997–2000, he was the communications director of the United Paperworkers International Union (UPIU) and then PACE, after the 1999 merger of the UPIU with the Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers International Union. In addition, in his previous work as a staff member of the UPIU, he conducted mobilization efforts and contract campaigns. This service included publicity, video production, and member mobilization and training in the field. He received his Doctorate degree in chemical engineering from the University of Colorado in 1987.

Business Phone: 202-544-6355

Veronica Slajer is a Communities and Governments Advisor for the North Star Group (NSG), an independent consulting firm. Ms. Slajer has worked on matters affecting rural communities and Indigenous Peoples for more than 30 years. As an Alaskan resident, Ms. Slajer worked previously for the State of Alaska, as well as with Tribal and local governments. Ms. Slajer started NSG in 2002 after her tenure at the Alyeska Pipeline Service Company's Federal government affairs office in Washington, DC. NSG provides an array of services geared toward collaborative success, stakeholder support, community empowerment, effective government relations, and responsible social and environmental practices.

TAYLOR, Elizabeth Mary

Member, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Betsy Taylor

Business E-mail: betsyt@vt.edu

Business Phone: 540-231-6551

Betsy Taylor is a cultural anthropologist whose primary fieldwork has been in Central Appalachia and Northeast India. Her recent research is on emerging forms of civil society and social movements, community-based natural resource management, critical regional studies, globalization, and sustainability. Her scholarly writings engage questions of environmental identities, the construction of identity (gender, class, place, ethnicity, religious), the constitution of public space, public involvement, and civic engagement. In addition to numerous scholarly articles, she is co-author (with Herbert Reid) of Recovering the Commons: Democracy, Place, and Global Justice (Urbana: University of Illinois Press, 2010). She has worked on many projects for community-driven, integrated, sustainable development in Appalachia and India—including health, agriculture, forestry, culture, and environmental stewardship. Betsy Taylor is currently the Senior Research Scientist in the Department of Religion and Culture at Virginia Tech. At the University of Kentucky, she served as Co-Director of Environmental Studies, Research Director for the Appalachian Center and on the faculty of the Social Theory program.

Business E-mail: dchambers@csp2.org

Business Phone: 406-585-9854

Dave Chambers is the president of the Center for Science in Public Participation, a non-profit corporation formed to provide technical assistance on mining and water quality to public interest groups and Tribal governments. Mr. Chambers has 39 years of experience in mineral exploration and development—15 years of technical and management experience in the mineral exploration industry and, for the past 24 years, he has served as an advisor on the environmental effects of mining projects both nationally and internationally.

Mr. Chambers has provided technical assistance to public interest groups and Tribal governments on proposed, operating, and abandoned mines in Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin, Canada (British Columbia, Ontario, Labrador, Yukon), Kyrgyzstan, and Northern Ireland, as well as negotiating with mine owners, mine developers, and Federal and State regulators, to assist these parties in understanding the major technical implications of specific mining projects and in providing alternatives that would lead to more environmentally responsible development.

Mr. Chambers has a Professional Engineering Degree in Physics from the Colorado School of Mines, a Master of Science Degree in Engineering from the University of California at Berkeley, and is a registered professional geophysicist in California (# GP 972). Dr. Chambers received his Doctorate in Environmental Planning from Berkeley. His continuing research focus is on the intersection of science and technology with public policy and natural resource management.

DUDIS, Daniel Kirvin

Alternate, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Dan Dudis

Business E-mail: ddudis@citizen.org

Business Phone:

Dan Dudis is currently employed by Public Citizen. Prior to his employment with Public Citizen, he was the Senior Policy Director at Transparency International – USA (TI-USA), a non-profit, non-partisan organization founded in 1993 to combat corruption in government and international business and development.

As an open government policy development and advocate, he participates in the United States open government working group and advocate that the Administration fulfill its commitments made under the Open Government Partnership action plan. With regard to anti-corruption policy development and advocacy, he develops proposals to improve integrity of public procurement systems in the United States, foreign countries, and international financial institutions. On the International development policy and advocacy front, he directed TI-USA's advocacy work on behalf of including a governance goal among the post-2015 sustainable development goals.

Mr. Dudis has also held positions at the Department of Justice and the Miami-Dade State Attorney's Office. He has a Juris Doctor from New York University School of Law and a Bachelor of Art degree in Biology from Yale University.

KRILL, Jennifer Lyn

Alternate, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Jennifer Krill

Business E-mail: jkrill@earthworksaction.org

Business Phone: 202-887-1872, ext. 103

Jennifer Krill is the Executive Director of EARTHWORKS—an organization dedicated to protecting communities and the environment from the impacts of irresponsible mineral and energy development. Earthworks was found in 1988 with an initial focus of reforming the U.S. Mining Law of 1872 and has since launched the innovative No Dirty Gold Campaign to build support in the marketplace for reforming the policies and practices of the mining industry. Earthworks' Oil & Gas Accountability Project has a 14-year track record of working with Tribal, urban, and rural communities to protect their homes and the environment from the devastating impacts of oil and gas drilling and development.

A lifelong activist, Ms. Krill has previously directed campaigns at Rainforest Action Network (RAN), where she helped negotiate a landmark policy from Boise Cascade to protect old growth forests, managed RAN's program to convince Japanese paper companies to stop buying old growth pulp from Tasmania, led the grassroots organizing campaign resulting in Home Depot ending its purchases of endangered wood products, directed the successful campaign to jumpstart Ford Motor Company, and co-designed RAN's innovative effort to spur the nation's largest banks to stop financing climate change-causing industries. Prior to RAN, Ms. Krill worked at Greenpeace and at the Sea Turtle Restoration Project.

She is a co-founder and currently serves as secretary of the board of directors of Plug In America and also serves on the board of the Labor Network for Sustainability and the advisory committee of the Business Ethics Network. Ms. Krill holds a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Liberal Arts from Ball State University. An avid traveler, she splits her time between Earthworks' headquarters in Washington, DC, and its field office in Berkeley, California, where she lives with her husband. Whenever she can, Ms. Krill escapes into the Sierra Nevada Mountains for skiing, paddling, and wilderness backpacking.

MORGAN, Jana Leigh

Alternate, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Jana Morgan

Business E-mail: jmorgan@pwypusa.org

Business Phone: 202-496-1189

Jana Morgan is the Director of Publish What You Pay - United States (PWYP-US) and leads the coalition's efforts to bring transparency and accountability to the oil, gas, and mining sector. Her work includes guiding the coalition's advocacy and research strategies to ensure the strong implementation of Section 1504 of the Dodd-Frank Act. She also collaborates with PWYP coalitions around the world to push for a global oil, gas, and mining payment transparency standard. Previously, Ms. Morgan worked at Global Witness, doing advocacy and in-country field research on Afghanistan's extractive sector, conflict minerals exploitation in the eastern Democratic Republic of Congo, and the development of governance systems for Uganda's emerging oil sector.

Ms. Morgan holds a Master of Arts degree in International Relations from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University and a Certificate of Advanced Study in Conflict Resolution. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Government from St. Lawrence University.

MUNILLA, Isabel Margarita

Alternate, Civil Society Organization

Preferred Name: Isabel Munilla

Business E-mail: imunilla@oxfamamerica.org

Business Phone: 202-589-1616

Isabel Munilla is Senior Policy Advisor for Extractive Industries at humanitarian and relief organization Oxfam America. She leads research and analysis to support Oxfam initiatives on oil, gas, and mining transparency with a focus on securities and contract disclosure norms and implementation of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). She engages with governments, multinational companies, development banks, investors, and civil society organizations, and her geographic focus includes the U.S., Canada, and the E.U., as well as South Africa and Cambodia, with a support role in East and Southern Africa. Previously, she was the Director of Publish What You Pay United States (PWYP), a coalition of faith-based, human rights, anti-poverty, anti-corruption, and development organizations that work together to push for transparency in the payments made by the oil, gas, and mining sectors to governments. Ms. Munilla led PWYP's advocacy for improved policies within the United States government, multinational companies, international financial institutions, and the EITI. She led PWYP US's 2010 drive to pass Section 1504/Cardin-Lugar provision of the U.S. Dodd-Frank Act, which requires oil, gas, and mining companies registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to publish their payments to governments as part of their annual reports to the Commission.

Prior to joining PWYP, she worked for nine years at the World Resources Institute conducting research with civil society partners on the social and environmental impacts—and benefits—of natural resource extraction. She was the principal author of People, Power and Pipelines: Lessons from Peru in the governance of gas production revenues and co-authored Breaking Ground: Engaging Communities in Extractives and Infrastructure Projects. She worked with civil society coalitions in the Amazon region, Indonesia, Russia, and Central Africa to examine the governance challenges inherent in extractive industries and the forestry sector, as well as the associated role of corporations and international financial institutions in influencing national and private systems of risk mitigation and management in these sectors. She holds degrees in French and Journalism from the University of Maryland, College Park.

SANSON, Brian Edward

DENNING, Phillip Edward

Member, Industry

Preferred Name: Phil Denning

Business E-mail: Phillip.denning@shell.com

Business Phone: 832-337-0399

Phil Denning has nearly 40 years of extractive industry experience, with a broad understanding of U.S. and international activities from a revenue, financial reporting, and statutory reporting basis; tax and royalty issues; and ERP or computer system ramifications.

Mr. Denning is the immediate past Chairman of the API Accounting Committee. As a committee chair and a representative of Shell, he collaborated with such stakeholders as other international oil and gas companies, the U.S. SEC, the Big 4 accounting firms, the Financial Accounting Standards Board, and the International Accounting Standards Board on implementation activities where multiple stakeholders have been involved on implementing major or “game changer” issues that impact the oil and gas industry.

The U.S. EITI implementation has a direct linkage to the recently issued Dodd Frank §1504 legislation for extractive payments to governments. Mr. Denning has been involved with this application for the oil and gas industry since the SEC issued proposed rules several years ago and will continue to be involved in this implementation effort.

Mr. Denning is the immediate past President of the Houston chapter of Financial Executives International.
